The Ceremonies of the Pageant in New York Marred by Rain.

Grand Display on Land and Water—The Procession Reviewed by the Governor and Others.

Unveiling of the Statue of George Washington—The Day Not Enjoyed Even Approximately.

A RAINY DAY.

New York, Nov. 25.—The day opened with a fine, bracing air, indicating cooler days. The atmosphere was quite clear, but not such as could be called warm. At an early hour a number of vessels took places near the reviewing stands, and from breakfast time until the hour when the procession started the docks and piers were crowded with people, who had come to the front to witness the unveiling of the statue of Washington in this city and the event. The decorations were elaborate on the public buildings and private houses, but the element of pouring rain rendered [illegible] with a display of the stars and stripes. Consequently the colors of France or Germany were coupled with the red, white, and blue. All classes of business were crowded and the streets presented a scene of animation, but the absence of bunting [illegible] the [illegible] of the day. The [illegible] were gathered in the early morning hours, and from breakfasting stood upon the docks and piers [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

Friends of Randall and Carlisle Vigorously Prosecuting the Canvass—Watching Trains.

Kind Choice Regarding the Vote of Southern Members—The Illinois Delegation in Demand.

Gen. and Mrs. Grant Will Follow Speaking's Annual Attempt to Keep in the Field.

ON THE GROUND.

The last week of the Speakership campaign begins with no change. The friends of the respective candidates go on the air to each other's camps, and to closely scan voter movements. There is no material expression of confidence on the part of the managers of either candidate. Each claims a majority of the Democratic members of a majority of the States necessary to a choice.

Mr. Hewitt expresses the sentiments of the Randall men when he says that they do not propose to be driven into any corner by the Carlisle men, and there is every reason why Southern members should not be treated with courtesy and consideration. In spite of the assertions of the Randall men, it is believed that Mr. Carlisle will receive the votes of a majority of the Southern delegations.

SCENE AT THE CAPITOL.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—The Star and Union efficiently harass that the report that it had gone over to Randall for Speaker is false, malicious and outrageous. Its position is entirely as stated in a dispatch sent on the 24th.

THE STRONG CONFIDENCE.

Speaking this fact in the Speaker's House of Reps to the Congressman in that section of Sunday's issue of that paper. "The Star editor is evidently opposed to Randall's election and supported by Carlisle because he is the choice of the leaders on the north, and supported by Randall because he does nearly represent the views on that question. Mr. Randall has not had the slightest idea that the Star would support him for Speaker, and the conduct of the paper has not tended to lead to that belief. The Star has not been friendly to Mr. Randall, and has not been friendly to the Democratic party. It has been the organ of the Administration, and has been the most bitter opponent of the Democratic party in Congress. It has been the most bitter opponent of the Democratic party in Congress. It has been the most bitter opponent of the Democratic party in Congress. It

[Illustrated Dispatch to The Tribune.]

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Although the past year of the Cleveland administration has been one of the most eventful in the history of the White House, from the moment of Grover's first election to the present day there has been no one man who has attracted the attention of the people to the executive mansion to the same extent as Chester A. Arthur. The members of President Arthur's family have, therefore, been well known, and the movements of the different members of the household have been chronicled in the newspapers. The members of President Arthur's family have also been the objects of the attentions of the fashionable world, and the receptions, balls, and dinners given by the President and Mrs. Arthur have been the most brilliant of the season. The object of the present writer in calling attention to the above facts is to show that the President and his family have been the objects of the attentions of the fashionable world, and that the receptions, balls, and dinners given by them

Commissioner Gaylor Makes a Plea for Them in a Council Communication.

A Double-Track Iron Structure Worked by Steam Advocated at Last Night.

Charges Against Police on the Devils Bridge Matter—No Boy Can Tonight Count Ears.

Board Reviews several the chief of the Department of Public Works, the city Engineer and the Commissioner of Public Works, relative to the Council meeting held to consider the advisability of building a bridge at Van Buren street. The communication was prepared by a committee consisting of [illegible]

The Commissioner of Public Works submitted the following communication in regard to the Rush street bridge:

A different arrangement of the machinery at that place would enable the engineer to [illegible] and thereby save the expense of one engineer. This change could be made without any inconvenience to the public. I would recommend that the Council authorize the change, and that the wages of the engineer be reduced to [illegible] per month.

Respectfully submitted,
GEO. GAYLOR, Commissioner.

Mr. Gaylor explained that the change would be a saving of $600 per year. The communication was referred to the Committee on Public Works.

The Committee on Public Works reported in favor of the ordinance providing for the construction of a double-track iron bridge at Van Buren street, and recommended that the ordinance do pass.

Ald. Burke said that the bridge was a necessity, and he hoped the ordinance would be passed.

Ald. Throop thought it would be a mistake to build a bridge that would be inadequate in a few years. He thought the bridge had better remain closed than be constructed in such a manner as that.

Ald. Beal was in favor of the plan proposed by Commissioner Gaylor, and introduced [illegible] after he thought that a good investment, and would prove very satisfactory.

Ald. Wicker thought it [illegible] had any danger to make against [illegible] he should oppose them in writing and submit them, as a separate matter. He believed the ordinance had a good one and that the effect should be investigated.

Ald. Burke said he had already performed [illegible] against [illegible], and he only mentioned his name to the Council because he had been charged out to do so, as Gaylor's request would be in the city.

The discussion of Ald. Gilbert and the communication of the Commissioner was referred to the Mayor, the Corporation, and the Commissioner of Public Works.

An order ordering the city attorney [illegible] the bar saloon.

Ald. Sanders introduced an order directing the Commissioner of Public Works to report by what authority the street pavements on South Water, Dearborn, and Clark streets had been torn up.

Ald. Gilbert called up the ordinance.

The resolution of Burke and Gaynor was, on motion of the ordinance to [illegible] of Edward Gilbert [illegible] Lumber Company, as one of the bridges, was [illegible] to pay the expenses.

Ald. Gaylor made a vigorous speech in favor of the ordinance.

The amount asked by Edward was $50, and Ald. Gaylor was of the opinion that $25 was a sufficient compensation. The ordinance was passed as [illegible].

Ald. Burke introduced an order, which was passed, directing the Commissioner of Public Works to report [illegible] Lumber Company had been [illegible] to pay a [illegible] for the [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] bridge.
